Official Wendy Carlos Online Information Source

Wendy Carlos is one of the most important composers living today. While primarily connected to the fields of electronic music, sound design, and alternate tunings, her compositions transcend these genres. It is certain that her music will be included among the major milestones of 20th century music.

Note: Due to major shifts in the music business, we lost our ESD distribution, leaving us stranded with few good options. Time for updating this website became severely limited. We expect to have news on Wendy's albums, plus regular website additions ASAP. Thank you for your many concerned inquiries and patience, good friends.

@Lisa, I do think the LeftSideBar10 do show the people YOU stalk and with whom you've had some FB "interaction." I used to stalk my crush's profile on a regular basis and he used to show up on my LeftSideBar10. When we first became FB friends, we made a couple of comments and "Liked" a couple of each other's posts. However, we've mostly exchanged PMs and been on FB chat.

More recently I've been 'stalking' a couple of other random profiles to see if these people will show up on the LeftSideBar10. Mind you these are people I rarely "interact" with. Nothing as of yet, but I'm confident they'll appear there soon, especially if I start "Liking" their stuff.

As far as my crush goes, he consistently shows up on my Moseover5. Like I said before, I've stopped clicking on his status updates and I've stopped visiting his page altogether. He PM'd me recently. I responded to his PM, but again I haven't visited his profile. He still shows up on my Mouseover5.

okay... I am not really sure about the relation between mutual views and left side bar.... I have three of the girls that "HATE" me for some reason. and I hid all of their posts on the news feed so I can never see their statuses or pictures updated. Still, they never fail to appear on my left side bar. I think it's not the "mutual" click. o_O. Weirdly, They never show up on my mouseover list either.

Today, my mouseover list has been updated!(Finally, after about 3 months of unchanging list) haha. 5 new people started showing up on my mouseover list. really really random... I am not even really interested in them and I never creep on their pages.(sigh) This algorithm is ridiculously complicated!! I have cleaned out my message box about three days ago to observe if it affects the left side bar list and the mouseover list. let's see what happens.

@Foxy: haha. Thank you, Foxy!! :) I also am started thinking that mouseover 5 has more to do with who looks at my profile. I was doing a little research yesterday and listed all the names appearing on my mouseover. It was 20 people in total. and they all had "good" or "possible" reasons to check on me and I haven't visited them over a month. (After I became paranoid after reading this forum.)

@Milly : wooahhh!! That's exactly what happened to me!! I started seeing my crush's best friend, and my crush's ex on my friend research bar. I was being paranoid after observing this. I was like "would they see my name in the research bar too? o_O????!?"

I have no idea why fb chose these certain names on the research bar. I admit looking at their pages like 4-5 months ago, but it was just one time thing! I thought "maybe" there is a slightest chance of them looking me up in reverse????.....

and my crush's name NEVER NEVER NEVER fails to appear on my friend search bar as the first person... :(It's all confusing..
